

Principles and Aims of Arran Sound, arransound.com

To provide a vibrant, inclusive and sustainable internet radio service for the benefit of our community on The Island of Arran.

An audio service, available to all members of the community in an open and honest way, regardless of gender, race, religious persuasion, age, ability or disability.

To endeavour always to co-operate with our community and use our service to help and assist the people of Arran in their activities. To promote the free flow of information and discussion, encourage creative talent and promote and protect cultural diversity.

We will strive to meet and keep the highest standards of care for our employees, volunteers, supporters young and not so young. To recognise, value and respect all contributors. To offer training and support to all who are involved with Arran Sound to make our community radio as successful and inclusive as possible.

To ensure the protection of young and vulnerable groups.

To communicate clearly our aims and procedures to all who are involved or who wish to be involved in our project, ensuring people in our community can actively contribute to the development of arransound.com.

To work in partnership with Arran High School and all those tasked with the care of our young people, to offer training opportunities both within and outside of school, freely sharing our resources with our youth in order to assist their progression and provide skills for their future life.

To ensure the exclusion of content which is specifically religious, political or sexual in nature.

To implement good management, programming and employment practices that oppose discrimination and promote equality.

To maintain independent editorial control over programming, endeavouring to ensure all editorial content is accurate and impartial.
